

PEACE & JUSTICE STUDIES / BACHELOR OF ARTS

Total Credit Hours: 120

Major Credit Hours: 36

Peace and Justice Studies

Peace and Justice Studies (PJS) is an interdisciplinary program housed in the Theology Department through which students acquire knowledge and skills of interfaith and intercultural just peacebuilding in order to create beloved community. PJS students practice the art of peacebuilding through community engagement in ways that are intentionally self-reflective, anti-racist and evolving.

Major

Eighteen credits of interdisciplinary core courses situate PJS majors in the theory, practices and art of just peacebuilding. Students learn to embrace the dignity of difference within communities and, in relationship, perceive injustices in need of transformation. Five Pathways have been identified for students to focus their elective course selections (18 credits) while remaining flexible to complement students' unique personal and professional aspirations. Those pathways are – conflict transformation; restorative/transformational justice; human rights and equitable development; women/gender equity and inclusion; and interfaith/ intercultural bridgebuilding.

Interdisciplinary Program

Enriched by faculty in a variety of disciplines, this program promotes examination of calls to justice as prerequisite to peace. Partner disciplines within the PJS program include: Art and Design; Communications; Education; English Studies; Environmental Science; History; Justice, Law and Public Safety Studies; Music; Philosophy; Physics; Political Science; Psychology; Social Work; Sociology; Theatre; and Theology.

Careers

Careers in Peace and Justice Studies include, but are not limited to – negotiation, mediation, political office, legislative reform, education, community organizing, human rights advocacy, environmental protection, interfaith dialogue, law, victim/offender advocacy, and restorative justice.
